

Desktop web testing

Perfecto offers a platform to test web applications using various configurations of the most popular desktop web browsers, in addition to mobile web browsers. This means that you can test a web application on different browsers, different versions, different screen resolutions, and different environment configurations from within the Perfecto Lab. The following pages detail how to access and employ these virtual browser environments to provide the best test platform for verifying the proper flow of the application.

- Test web apps on desktop browsers
- Share a desktop web session with an IDE script